County Candidates And Committee Solid For The Cause

REPUBLICANS READY FOR CAMPAIGN

Oahu County Republican candidates, a goodly number of them, gathered at Republican headquarters last evening to meet the County Committee and talk over the campaign. Attorney General Lorrin Andrews was in the chair, for better or worse. He called the meeting to order and over was observed throughout. He called for opinions and suggestions from the various Republican County candidates present as to the method of starting in on the campaign. Each man had a brief word to say and the general opinion was that the sooner the campaign started the better it would be for the party. There were a few, to be sure, who were going not too fast, for waiting to see how the wind was blowing before setting sail, but the majority said launch the county campaign boat now and let her weather the gale if there is one on the program. It was suggested that the campaign should make two visits to the country districts to talk good Republican doctrine, one as soon as possible and another just before the election so as to give a last thrust of reason into the minds of doubtful ones.

The watchword of the meeting resolved itself into: "Stick together and win out. Hooryay!" Indeed, judging from the spirit manifested at last night's gathering, the Republicans have it already all over with except the enthusiastic applause.

Supervisor Jack Lucas was there. Being there he had something to say. Folks are already calling him "Supervisor," so as to get him used to it. There'll be something wrong with the election if the title doesn't turn up in the deal. Lucas registered one remark to the effect that it might be cheaper for the campaigners to go around in the island in automobiles than to charter any rigs from Jim Quinn.

Questions are always in order at lectures, revivals, inquests and political meetings and Eddie Douthitt started the interrogative ball rolling by pumping a few at the Attorney General, the chairman of the County Committee (also a member of the Territorial Central Committee).

"When are we going to start in on this campaign?" asked the prospective County Attorney.

"When we get the money," replied Andrews.

"When we get the money," persisted the learned counsel for the County "what's the idea?"

"Well, next week we ought to start around the island. After we have worked in the outer districts, then we will get in and hustle in town. Then, just before election we will get out around the island again."

Supervisor Geo. W. Smith thought it would be a good idea to learn what "our friends, the enemy," were at before doing things all at once.

"We have got to call the executive committees of the precincts together," said Andrews, waxing earnest; "this campaign is going to be no cinch. It is not a proposition where one man can say that he can handle his precinct. All have got to get in and work and work hard, too. We must all get in and men in each precinct must see to it that by next Saturday we have a report on what each precinct is going to do at the polls on election day. The lists in each precinct must be gone over and carefully compared with the lists of last election. It must be determined what voters are to be relied upon and who are doubtful; so that we may know where to put in our most telling work. All this means careful organization. Now I see present here Mr. W. C. Roe of the First of the Fourth."

Mr. Roe: "I'll see that we have an executive meeting within two days. I think it may be presumed that we are all Republicans in the First."

Harry Murray was pointed out as a good man to feel the pulse of the Second of the Fourth. He said he'd try to attend to it, which means that he will. John Waterhouse was also present and stated that he would work in the Second. Charles Booth (Treasurer) was assigned to look up the situation in the Third; the Fourth of the Fourth went to Al. Moore. Jim Quinn got the Ninth and took occasion to remark that he thought the Ninth would go pretty strong Republican. Richard Lane said he would wake them up in the First of Fifth and let them know what was wanted. Secretary Zablun was asked to notify Goodale of the Third of the Fifth to canvass the votes there. Supervisor Woodward of the Fifth in charge for a report on the precincts. "I guess Judge Hookano and Mr. Fernandez will look after the Sixth," remarked Andrews. And so each precinct was provided for. Where precincts were not represented at the meeting the secretary was asked to write requests that the work of forecasting the election be accomplished.

Al. Moore thought it was a fine idea to publish in the newspapers the fact that executive committees of the various precincts should get together for work. Andrews declared any way good, providing the work was accomplished, but there should be no expense charged up. "We must have these reports Saturday night," said Andrews. "I will be ready to report the members of the executive committee on Wednesday. We can't make campaign plans until we know something of what the financial situation is to be."

Then Jack Lucas fired a question: "When will the County Act test be decided?" he asked of Andrews.

"Oh, not for two or three weeks," replied Andrews, offhand. Then he added: "Well, not for a week or so. Not before the end of next week. Cooper, Prosser, Gear and Robertson have to talk yet. But we are going ahead on the proposition that the County Act is good law and that it will be put through; and we will fight for it."

Harry Murray remarked that most of the Democrats would be with the Republicans, not having put up any man for the sheriffship and having few of their own men up for anything.

John Waterhouse, treasurer of the County Committee, stated that the business men if they thought that the Republican candidate were really in for victory, were really fighting as a whole and would not split, would readily respond to calls for financial aid for the campaign.

Andrews at once put the question to each candidate present, asking them if they were not supporting the administration in this campaign. Each and every man present answered the affirmative, as a matter of course; candidates not present, according to Andrews' survey of the assembly, were A. M. Brown, for sheriff; D. Kalanika-lani, for clerk, and the candidates for deputy sheriff of Waianae and the supervisor for Waianae.

"Our platform," said Andrews, "endorses everything Republican; President Roosevelt, Governor Carter and the County Act."

"That's what I wanted to know," said Waterhouse. "Now I can tell the business men what we are going to do. I have already been around to some of the business houses and I have met with this feeling of uncertainty as to whether the Republican party is going to hold together in this county campaign or split up. If the Republicans do not go to the fight together, the business men might prefer to use their money to back men of their own choosing. If we hold together there will be no trouble about getting money."

Geo. W. Smith arose to say that he did not want to see anything in this campaign of race distinction. Richard Lane said he had a hard district in which to work. They were all Hawaiians and his opponent would take considerable beating. For this reason he deemed two trips around the island advisable.

E. A. Douthitt said the business interests should most readily respond with the needed money. If County government was to be successful competent men should be elected to office. It would be a great disaster to the community if the Home Rule-Democrat ticket were elected.

E. E. Adams said the fact might just as well be brought out. The question being asked by some was: "How is Arthur Brown going to stand?" There had been something in an evening paper about his being anti-administration.

"Well, Brown is unfortunate," began Andrews and then somebody else butted in and everybody commenced to say that Brown was a good Republican and would fight for the whole ticket. It did not follow that because the Star said Brown was anti-administration that he was so in fact. Jim Quinn said there was no doubt that Brown would support the administration.

Then W. C. Roe made a speech which was much applauded and the meeting came to an end.

GOOD CANE PROGRESS AND CALM WEATHER

Reporting on crops and weather conditions throughout the islands, Section Director A. McC. Ashley gives the following general summary for the week ending May 27:

The week has been marked by a decided decrease in the atmospheric pressure and a dying out of the trade winds which have blown steadily for the past two months. Accompanying these changes, temperatures have been high and the weather sultry in most sections.

The rainfall has been abundant in the Kona and windward districts of Hawaii; while in the Kau district there have been sufficient showers at the higher elevations to supply water for the fluming of cane, in addition to which present conditions give some slight promise of a break in the severe drought of the lower levels. Copious showers have fallen over the western portion of Maui, but dry weather has prevailed in central and eastern portions. The rainfall has been light in Oahu and Kauai.

Growing cane has made very good progress during the week under the influence of the calm sultry weather. The preparation of land and ratoons, the planting of seed cane, and the harvesting and grinding of mature cane continue. The mill at Pepeekeo, Hawaii, has shut down, and cane cutting will be finished this week at Koloa, Kauai. Pineapples are in good condition, and the plants in central Maui are advancing finely under the somewhat warmer and drier conditions which now obtain in that section. Rice is heading and ripening in Maui and Kauai, while the harvesting of early rice has already begun in portions of Hawaii and Oahu. Coffee trees are in good condition and are making very satisfactory growth. Although rain is much needed in most leeward sections, pastures and stock generally are in good condition. Sisal needs rain badly in Oahu, but is growing well in Maui. Farmers in central Maui are cutting hay and digging potatoes, both crops promising a heavy yield. Watermelons are coming into market in large quantities, and papayas, avocado pears and mangoes are becoming plentiful.

A light earthquake shock was felt at Kamuela, Hawaii, at 10:00 a. m. of the 22nd inst.

CELEBRATED THE DAY OF ITS ANNIVERSARY

The Young Men's Christian Association of Honolulu last night celebrated the thirty-sixth anniversary of its existence here. Addresses, reports of the work during the past year, an informal reception, and a game of indoor baseball followed by a light luncheon, marked the exercises. Early in the evening the Association gave a dinner in honor of its invited guests, at which several members of the local Y. W. C. A. assisted in serving the tables.

At 8 o'clock the exercises proper began in the auditorium, with prayer by Rev. J. W. Wadman and singing by all present. General Secretary H. C. Brown then presented his report, reviewing the work of the year and showing the Association to be, both socially and financially, on a substantial basis. Treasurer C. H. Atherton also presented his report, the other formal reports being dispensed with.

W. W. Hall, one of the charter members, spoke briefly on "Recollections of Early Days." Judge S. B. Dole, Samuel Emerson and W. C. Weedon were the other charter members present.

Fred Butler sang, accompanied by Mrs. W. L. Whitney, after which Dr. Ostrom delivered the address of the evening, urging the Y. M. C. A. to greater efforts, and congratulating it on its work here.

At the close of the regular program, the informal reception and indoor baseball game took place.
